

Full Text of Job Openings for Economists Listing:

The Department of Economics in the Albers School of Business and Economics at Seattle University invites applications for a one-year, full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer to teach macroeconomics and statistics/quantitative methods courses.

Responsibilities will include teaching six face-to-face undergraduate courses (principles of macroeconomics, intermediate macroeconomics, and/or statistics/quantitative methods) as well as department, school, and/or university service. Requirements: ABD or PhD in economics by Fall 2021; teaching experience; current research portfolio; experience using Excel for basic statistical analysis.

Seattle University, founded in 1891, is a Jesuit Catholic university located on 50 acres in Seattle's Capitol Hill neighborhood. More than 7200 students are enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within nine schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals whose differing backgrounds, beliefs, ideas and life experiences will further enrich the diversity of its educational community.

Submit the following materials to <https://www.seattleu.edu/careers/>: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, recent teaching evaluations, contact information for three references, and a teaching statement (maximum 2 pages) that explains how your teaching philosophy aligns with the mission and values of Seattle University. Letters of reference may be solicited upon completion of application. Applications will be reviewed from June 16 until the position is filled. The position is subject to budget approval. If you have any questions, please contact Armen Papyan at apapyan@seattleu.edu.