

Faculty position in Econometrics
Assistant, Associate or Full Professor
Department of Economics
University of California, Riverside

The Department of Economics at the University of California Riverside invites applications for a faculty appointment in Econometrics at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor level, beginning July 1, 2024. The successful candidate would have a state-of-the-art research program and would be a developer of new econometric methods in any area of econometrics. We are particularly interested in candidates working on high dimensional models and machine learning methods.

Candidates for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor must show potential for engaging in outstanding research and developing excellence in teaching graduate and undergraduate students. Applicants must be ABD or have met the requirements for the Ph.D. in Economics or a related field by the time of appointment July 1, 2024. Advanced assistant professors are encouraged to apply. Complete applications must include a cover letter, current CV, samples of research, statement of research, a statement of contributions to diversity, evidence of teaching excellence/teaching evaluations, a statement of contributions to diversity and 3 letters of recommendation.

Applicants who use Interfolio may utilize a feature provided by the Interfolio Service to allow Interfolio to upload their letters directly into AP Recruit. Applicants can input an Interfolio-generated email address in place of their letter writer's email address. Interfolio refers to this as Online Application Deliveries. The following link on the Interfolio website shows how to set this up (<http://help.interfolio.com/entries/xxx-Uploading-Letters-to-an-Online-Application-System>.)

Candidates for a tenured position of Associate or Full Professor must have an established record of outstanding research accomplishment and be committed to an active research program. Candidates will also be expected to have a proven record of teaching excellence, guide the research of doctoral students, and provide service to the university and profession. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Economics or a related field at the time of application. Complete applications must include a cover letter of interest, current CV, samples of research, statement of research, evidence of teaching excellence/teaching evaluations, a statement of contributions to diversity, and the names and contact information of 3 references.

Salary: The University of California values salary transparency and reports salaries annually in the UC Annual Wage Database. Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input. The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment. See Table(s) <https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/files/2023-24/oct-2023-acad-salary-scales/t3.pdf>. The salary range for this position is $103,700 - $215,800. “Off-scale salaries” and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.

Applications should be submitted electronically to <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF01796>

Review of the applications will begin November 27, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by November 27, 2023, will receive full consideration.
